Layered Process Audit (LPA) is a structured, repeatable process used to verify that manufacturing processes are operating correctly and consistently. It involves performing a series of checks at various stages of the production process to ensure that all requirements are being met. LPAs are typically performed by trained personnel and are an essential part of a robust quality management system. They help to identify and prevent defects, reduce variability, and improve overall process efficiency. LPAs are often used in conjunction with other quality tools such as Statistical Process Control (SPC) and Process Capability Analysis (CPA).
