Overview. Thermal radiation, also known as heat, is the emission of electromagnetic waves from all matter that has a temperature greater than absolute zero. It represents the conversion of thermal energy into electromagnetic energy. Thermal energy consists of the kinetic energy of random movements of atoms and molecules in matter.

Convection is the heat transfer due to the bulk movement of molecules within fluids such as gases and liquids, including molten rock (). Convection includes sub-mechanisms of advection (directional bulk-flow transfer of heat), and diffusion (non-directional transfer of energy or mass particles along a concentration gradient).

Heat pipes are recognised as one of the most efficient passive heat transfer technologies available. A heat pipe is a structure with very high thermal conductivity that enables the transportation of heat whilst maintaining almost uniform temperature along its heated and cooled sections.

The cause of the trend is a puzzle. Physics demands that water expand as its temperature increases. But to keep the rate of rise constant, as observed, expansion of sea water evidently must be offset by something else.
